INTRODUCTION

In The United Methodist Church episcopal leaders are called to lead the denomination in ecumenical and interreligious ministry. Paragraph 403.1e of The United Methodist Book of Discipline states that bishops lead through several important disciplines, one of which is “a passion for the unity of the church.” The paragraph clarifies: “The role of the bishop is to be the shepherd of the whole flock and thereby provide leadership toward the goal of understanding, reconciliation and unity within the Church - The United Methodist Church and the church universal.”

It is not exclusively the role of the bishop, however, to lead in ecumenical and interreligious witness. In our denomination it is the responsibility of every lay person, every clergy person, every group and agency to be in ministry, and one of the foundations of our ministerial witness is that of ecumenical and interreligious relationships.

This ecumenical and interreligious handbook is designed to help Bishops, District Superintendents, and annual conference leaders live out these high callings of ecumenism and witness.

It is a resource developed by the Council of Bishops. If, after reading through this publication, questions remain, please contact the office.

Chapter 1: Theology of Ecumenical and Interreligious Ministry

Biblical Foundations of United Methodist Leadership in Christian Unity and Interreligious Ministry

The United Methodist Church claims four sources hold authority in our lives: scripture, tradition, reason and experience. Scripture, we believe, is primary among the four.

The calling to work for Christian unity and to be reconcilers in God’s world is a foundational theme in Judeo-Christian scripture. This calling is at the very heart of the Good News and is central to the whole of God’s salvation history.

In the beginning, God created the heavens and the earth, a creation of wondrous variety and complexity. In this process of creation, God created human beings. While marked by great diversity, all people bear the image of God and are charged to love God, to keep and enjoy the creation and to live in relationship with one another. From the beginning, it has been clear: People cannot be who they are created to be apart from one another, and in connection to the Creation. With Jesus’ presence in the world, God takes a new initiative to show humanity the way life should be lived by calling people to be a part of a community who lives in covenantal relationship with God. For Christians, this community is the church. United Methodists believe the church is a people not defined by national boundaries, common languages, or ethnic identity. The church is a visible embodiment of the Good News—a sign of God’s mighty power to unite. When teaching about unity and relationship, the following scriptural passages, taken from the NRSV of the Bible, are important passages to review (in their contexts):

Psalm 133 - How very good and pleasant it is when kindred live together in unity! It is like the precious oil on the head, running down upon the beard, on the beard of Aaron, running down over the collar of his robes. It is like the dew of Hermon, which falls on the mountains of Zion. For there the Lord ordained his blessing, life forevermore.

John 17:20-23 - [Jesus prays:] I ask not only on behalf of these, but also on behalf of those who will believe in me through their word, that they may all be one. As you, Father are in me and I am in you, may they also be in us, so that the world may believe that you have sent me. The glory that you have given me I have given them, so that they may be one, as we are one, I in them and you in me, that they may become completely one, so that the world may know that you have loved me and have loved them as you loved me.

Acts 2:1-2 - When the day of Pentecost had come, they were all together in one place. And, suddenly from heaven there came a sound like the rush of a violent wind, and it filled the entire house where they were sitting.

1 Corinthians 12:12-13 - For just as the body is one and has many members, and all the members of the body, though many, are one body, so it is with Christ. For in the one Spirit we were all baptized into one body - Jews or Greeks, slaves or free - and we were all made to drink of one Spirit.

2 Corinthians 5:14-18 – For the love of Christ urges us on, because we are convinced that one has died for all; therefore all have died. And he died for all, so that those who live might live no longer for themselves, but for him who died and was raised for them. From now on, therefore, we regard no one from a human point of view; even though we once knew Christ from a human point of view, we know him no longer in that way. So if anyone is in Christ, there is a new creation: everything old has passed away; see, everything has become new! All this is from God who reconciled us to himself through Christ, and has given us the ministry of reconciliation..."

Galatians 3:28 - There is no longer Jew or Greek, there is no longer slave or free, there is no longer male and female; for all of you are one in Christ Jesus.

Ephesians 1: 9-10 - ... he has made known to us the mystery of his will, according to his good pleasure that he set forth in Christ, as a plan for the fullness of time, to gather up all things in him, things in heaven and things on earth.

Ephesians 2:13-14 - But now in Christ Jesus you who once were far off have been brought near by the blood of Christ. For he is our peace; in his flesh he has made both groups into one and has broken down the dividing wall, that is, the hostility between us.

Ephesians 4:1-6 - I therefore, the prisoner in the Lord, beg you to lead a life worthy of the calling to which you have been called, with all humility and gentleness, with patience, bearing with one another in love, making every effort to maintain the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace. There is one body and one Spirit, just as you were called to the one hope of your calling, one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of all, who is above all and through all and in all.

Titus 3:8-9 - The saying is sure. I desire that you insist on these things, so that those who have come to believe in God may be careful to devote themselves to good works, these things are excellent and profitable to everyone. But avoid stupid controversies, genealogies, dissensions, and quarrels about the law, for they are unprofitable and worthless.

Hebrews 10:23-25 - Let us hold fast to the confession of our hope without wavering, for he who as promised is faithful. And let us consider how to provoke one another to love and good deeds, not neglecting to meet together, as is the habit of some, but encouraging one another, and all the more as you see the Day approaching.

1 John 1:5-7 - This is the message we have heard from him and proclaim to you, that God is light and in him there is no darkness at all. If we say that we have fellowship with him while we are walking in darkness, we lie and do not do what is true; but if we walk in the light as he himself is in the light, we have fellowship with one another, and the blood of Jesus his Son cleanses us from all sin.

1 John 4:15-17, 21 - God abides in those who confess that Jesus is the Son of God, and they abide in God. So we have known and believe the love that God has for us. God is love, and those who abide in love abide in God, and God abides in them. Love has been perfected among us in that: that we may have boldness on the day of judgment, because as he is, so are we in this world... The commandment we have from him is this: those who love God must love their brothers and sisters.

Disciplinary Foundations of United Methodist Leadership in Christian Unity and Interreligious Ministry

The United Methodist Book of Discipline organizes how United Methodists express the living out of our call to unity. Since unity is foundational to Methodist witness, several helpful statements can be found there. To supplement scriptural study, the following Disciplinary paragraphs may also be studied:

Historical Statement - p.19 (early 1900's) - Social problems were... a spur in the movement toward ecumenism and interchurch cooperation. Each of the denominations now included in The United Methodist Church became active in the Federal Council of Churches, the first major ecumenical venture among American Protestants.

Historical Statement - p. 20 (1940-1967) - ...they maintained their concern for ecumenicity and church union. On November 16, 1946, in Johnstown, Pennsylvania, The Evangelical Church and The United Brethren Church were united into The Evangelical United Brethren Church, after twenty years of negotiation... The Methodist Church was also interested in closer ties with other Methodist and Wesleyan bodies. In 1951 it participated in the formation of the World Methodist Council, successor to the Ecumenical Methodist Conferences that were begun in 1881. As expressions of their wider ecumenical commitment, Methodists and the Evangelical United Brethren became active members of the World Council of Churches, founded in 1948, and the National Council of Churches, founded in 1950... The two churches also cooperated with seven other Protestant denominations in forming the Consultation on Church Union in 1960.

The Constitution - Article IV. p. 24, ¶4, "Inclusiveness of the Church" - The United Methodist Church is a part of the church universal, which is one Body in Christ...

The Constitution - Article VI, p. 25, ¶6, "Ecumenical Relations" - As part of the church universal, The United Methodist Church believes that the Lord of the church is calling Christians everywhere to strive toward unity; and therefore it will seek, and work for, unity at all levels of church life: through world relationships with other Methodist churches and united churches related to The Methodist Church or The Evangelical United Brethren Church, through councils of churches, and through plans of union and covenantal relationships with churches of Methodist or other denominational traditions.

Doctrinal Standards - p. 47, ¶102 - We understand ourselves to be part of Christ's universal church when by adoration, proclamation, and service we become conformed to Christ.

Our Theological Task - p. 87, ¶105, "The Present Challenge to Theology in the Church" In the name of Jesus Christ we are called to work within our diversity while exercising patience and forbearance with one another. Such patience stems neither from indifference toward truth nor from an indulgent tolerance of error but from an awareness that we know only in part and that none of us is able to search the mysteries of God except by the Spirit of God...

Our Theological Task - p. 88, ¶105, "Ecumenical Commitment" - Christian unity is founded on the theological understanding that through faith in Jesus Christ we are made members-in-common of the one body of Christ. Christian unity is not an option; it is a gift to be received and expressed. United Methodists respond to the theological, biblical, and practical mandates for Christian unity by firmly committing ourselves to the cause of Christian unity at local, national, and world levels... We see the Holy Spirit at work in making the unity among us more visible... Concurrently, we have entered into serious interfaith encounters and explorations between Christians and adherents of other living faiths of the world. Scripture calls us to be both neighbors and witnesses to all peoples... As people bound together on one planet, we see the need for a self-critical view of our own tradition and accurate appreciation for other traditions... We labor together with the help of God toward the salvation, health, and peace of all people. In respectful conversations and in practical cooperation, we confess our Christian faith and strive to display the manner in which Jesus Christ is the life and hope of the world.

Other United Methodist Foundational Statements

In addition to what is written in our Book of Discipline, supporting statements are found in our Book of Resolutions, Book of Worship and United Methodist Hymnal. We share here only a sample.

Resolution #3144 - "Resolution of Intent: With a View to Unity" – The 2016 Book of Resolutions, p. 206-208 – This implies, at the very least, our heartiest offer of goodwill and Christian community to all our Roman Catholic brothers and sisters, in the avowed hope of the day when all bitter memories... will have been redeemed by the gift of the fullness of Christian unity, through our common Lord, Jesus Christ.

Resolution #3291 – "Called to Be Neighbors and Witnesses: Guidelines for Interreligious Relationships – The 2016 Book of Resolutions, p. 293-297 – ...We United Methodist Christians, not just individually, but corporately, are called to be neighbors with other faith communities, and to work with them to create a human community...in which there is love, mutual respect, and justice.

The United Methodist Book of Worship – World Communion Sunday Prayer by Andy Langford, P. 432 – Almighty God: from the ends of the earth you have gathered us around Christ's holy table. We come to feast together. Have mercy on your church, troubled and divided. Renew us and make us one. Amen.

The United Methodist Hymnal – "Many Gifts, One Spirit," #114 – Many gifts, one Spirit, one love known in many ways. In our difference is blessing, from diversity we praise one Giver, one Lord, one Spirit, one Word known in many ways, hallowing our days. For the Giver, for the gifts, praise, praise, praise!

The United Methodist Hymnal – "One Bread, One Body," #620 – One bread, one body, one Lord of all, one cup of blessing which we bless. And we, though many throughout the earth, we are one body in this one Lord.

Foundational Statements from Other Faith Communities

Many other Christians also claim formational statements that emphasize the unity of Christ's universal church. Thomas Campbell, for example, was one of the founders of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ). In his 1809 "Declaration and Address of the Christian Associate of Washington" (Washington, PA, p. 16), he writes the following:

The Church of Christ upon earth is essentially, intentionally, and constitutionally one: consisting of all those in every place that profess their faith in Christ and obedience to him in all things according to the Scriptures. Later, he writes: Division among Christians is a horrid evil that is anti-Christian, as it destroys the visible unity of the body of Christ; as if he were divided against himself, excluding and excommunicating a part of himself.

Since its Second Vatican Council The Roman Catholic Church has also done much to uphold and continue an ecumenical perspective of Christ's Church. One of the important quotes from the "Decree on Ecumenism of the Second Vatican Council" (Vatican City, 1964) is:

The restoration of unity among all Christians is one of the principal concerns of the Second Vatican Council. Christ the Lord founded one Church and one Church only. However, many Christian Communion present themselves to men [sic] as the true inheritors of Jesus Christ; all indeed profess to be followers of the Lord but they differ in mind and go different ways, as if Christ Himself were divided (cf. 1 Cor. 1:13). Certainly, such division openly contradicts the will of Christ, scandalizes the world and damages that most holy cause, the preaching of the Gospel to every creature.

The Moravian Church (Northern and Southern Provinces) wrote a statement entitled, "The Ground of Unity." It is an official statement of their faith community, adopted in 1995. In part it states:

It is the Lord's will that Christendom should give evidence of and seek unity in Him with zeal and love. In our own midst we see how such unity has been promised us and laid upon us as a charge. We recognize that through the grace of Christ the different churches have received many gifts. It is our desire that we may learn from each other and rejoice together in the riches of the love of Christ and the manifold wisdom of God.

And, in the Book of Common Prayer of The Episcopal Church a prayer for the Church is offered, which succinctly states that faith community's desire for Christ's Church:

Gracious Father, we pray for thy holy Catholic Church. Fill it with all truth, in all truth with all peace. Where it is corrupt, purify it; where it is in error, direct it; where in anything it is amiss, reform it. Where it is right, strengthen it; where it is in want, provide for it; where it is divided, reunite it; for the sake of Jesus Christ thy Son our Savior. Amen.

These are just a few examples of the universal church's desire for unity. United Methodists are a part of that larger congregation and share that deep desire of unity among Christians for the sake of the witness of Christ.

“It is not our differences that divide us. It is our inability to recognize, accept, and celebrate those differences.”

Chapter 2: Ecumenical and Interreligious History and Polity

The History of The United Methodist Church in the Ecumenical and Interreligious Movements

Ecumenical engagement has been a part of the ministries of all the traditions that have come together to form The United Methodist Church. The Wesley brothers, especially John, maintained conversations with other Evangelical and Pietist Christians throughout the 18th century. While these relationships fluctuated over the decades, Methodists strove to build a common witness to the Gospel of Jesus Christ and to work fervently for the revival of the church and the spreading of scriptural holiness throughout the land. Early ecumenical connections included those with Moravian Pietists on the European Continent and in Britain and Calvinist Evangelicals in Britain and America. Similarly, early relationships were built across the boundaries of church traditions by leaders of what would become the Evangelical United Brethren Church in America.

Bishop Martin Boehm, for instance, regularly invited Evangelical preachers – among them Methodists – to preach to his fellow Mennonites (who are part of the German Reformed family of Churches). Some of these contacts led to the formation of what would become constituents of our present-day church. In 1968, The Methodist Church and the Evangelical United Brethren Church in America were united, thus officially incorporating a stream of the Reformed tradition into United Methodism.

At least as vital was the local ecumenical interchange between Methodist preachers traveling the circuits of the early Methodist Episcopal Church at the dawn of the 19th century. In New England, for instance, Reverend Timothy Merritt (1775-1845) engaged in public theological debate with clergy of other traditions – in a kind of ‘shouting ecumenism’ – in which they discussed together the meaning of ‘church’ and of what characterizes a holy Christian life. Such local conversations were not uncommon during the first two decades of the 1800s.

Ecumenical conversations and side-by-side work was undertaken by Methodist and other Christians as the 19th century saw a number of Christian efforts to reform and improve society. Bible and tract societies, Sunday school unions, temperance societies, home and overseas mission organizations, anti-slavery efforts, and many other settings saw Methodists engaged with Christians of other traditions who were working to transform society in line with Christian teachings. Some of these efforts were institutionally ecumenical (accepting participant members from different traditions) and some worked at co-operation with similar ministries across denominational boundaries.

The present-day ecumenical and interreligious ministries, described in the following section, are but the latest chapter in an unbroken history of Methodist and Evangelical United Brethren efforts to bring Christians together in love and labor to give witness to the Gospel of Jesus Christ. Indeed, Methodist experiences in mission activities helped make members of our tradition into some of the key innovators in positive engagement of God's children who belong to other religions. One of the pioneers of both 20th century evangelism and interfaith dialogue was E. Stanley Jones (1884-1973), whose work as a missionary in India gave him the opportunity to shape new approaches to Christian witness and love of non-Christians as well.

In this post-World War II era, Methodists were motivated by a deep belief in unity among the followers of Jesus Christ to transform a hurting world. Methodists were establishing members of regional councils of churches and the World Council of Churches (with Methodists John R. Mott, Philip A. Potter and others being strong leaders in the early global movement). Ecumenism was central to the foundational beliefs of the new United Methodist Church, and structures were put in place to ensure United Methodists were engaged in working toward visible unity with other Christian faith communions.

It is important to recall the ecumenical and interreligious ministries of today have actual lines of connection to some of the deepest roots of United Methodist identity.

The United Methodist Church Organization for Ecumenical and Interreligious Ministry

The United Methodist Church has organized itself in such a way that allows witnessing to the unity of the universal church of Jesus Christ to be encouraged and enabled in many ways. Every area and level of our denominational structure is called to live into Christ's unity and our polity reflects that calling.

Focused ecumenical ministry began in our denomination over fifty years ago, when the Methodist Council of Bishops (COB) created an ecumenical committee. Today, with nearly 44,000 different Christian denominations in the world, the ministry is even more vital and crucial to Christ's global witness, as it seeks to keep those Christians working together for a unified witness of the Gospel.

In the Book of Discipline, Paragraph 403.1.3 United Methodists are taught that elders selected to serve as bishops should be persons called to lead through "a passion for the unity of the church." Therefore, even though all United Methodists are called to live ecumenically, our bishops are set apart as our formal leaders of this Movement. It was Bishop G. Bromly Oxnam who first combined the position of Ecumenical Officer of The United Methodist Church with the pre-existing position of Council of Bishops Secretary, as it was clear the denomination needed someone to take the lead in this burgeoning ministry. Bishop James Matthews staffed a new ecumenical task force. In 1972 the General Conference moved that ecumenical committee to the Interchurch Center in New York under the ministry of the General Board of Global Ministries (GBGM). Then, the 1980 General Conference created the General Commission on Christian Unity and Interreligious Concerns (GCCUIC) as a standalone agency. Rob Huston was the first General Secretary, followed by Bruce Robbins, Larry Pickens and Stephen Sidorak.

In 1996 Bishop William Boyd Grove became the church's first official Ecumenical Officer, separating that responsibility from that of the COB Secretary. Other Ecumenical Officers have included: Bishop Melvin Talbert (2000-2004), Bishop William Oden (2004-2008), Bishop Sharon Rader (2008-2012), Bishop Mary Ann Swenson (2012-2016), Bishop Mike Watson (2016-2020) and Bishop Sally Dyck (beginning in 2020). Bishop Fritz Mutti has also served as Interim Ecumenical Officer on behalf of the Council of Bishops.

The position of Ecumenical Officer is filled by a retired bishop who is elected by the Council of Bishops. Paragraph 431 states: ... In formal relations with other churches and/or ecclesial bodies, the Council of Bishops shall be the primary liaison for The United Methodist Church. The ecumenical officer of the Council of Bishops shall be responsible for these relationships. His or her duties include: naming representatives to ecumenical organizations, collaborating ministries with the Council of Bishops, overseeing the ministry and staff of the COB, and representing The United Methodist Church at ecumenical and interreligious gatherings.

From 1980 to 2012 the ecumenical and interreligious ministries of The United Methodist Church were organized by the Ecumenical Officer and lived out by The General Commission on Christian Unity and Interreligious Concerns (GCCUIC). However, a few years ago, the commission itself began to explore how best to serve the ecumenical and interreligious commitments of The United Methodist Church. Since our Discipline calls our episcopal and superintending leaders to shepherd the denomination in ecumenical and interreligious ministry, the General Conference of 2012 was petitioned to move the ministry officially under the oversight of the Council of Bishops. This passed, and in 2013 that transition began. The office was re-named The Council of Bishops Office of Christian Unity and Interreligious Relationships (OCUIR). The ecumenical and interreligious staff were added to the COB staff and moved to the United Methodist Building in Washington, DC. All positions are structured so their goal is to empower and resource the bishops as they lead the denomination in ecumenical and interreligious ministries.

The staff now includes an Ecumenical Staff Officer for Leadership Development, an Ecumenical Staff Officer for Faith and Order and Theological Dialogue, and a part time Administrative Assistant. The bishops' Ecumenical Officer oversees the ministry of this staff.

The Council of Bishops Leadership Team on Ecumenical and Interreligious Relations (LTEIR) is the group of elected bishops that gives direct oversight and accountability to the general ministry of the COB ecumenical and interreligious ministries. They meet together twice a year during Council of Bishops gatherings to receive reports and make recommendations. The OCUIR (formerly the staff, now a diverse and representative advisory committee) is comprised of laity and clergy from across the Connection. Their purpose is to work collaboratively with the bishops to support the ecumenical and interreligious ministries of The United Methodist Church. These groups and individuals work together to help the COB and its ecumenical ministries function in the best possible way on behalf of The United Methodist Church.

The denominational level, however, is not the only way The United Methodist Church lives out our ecumenical and interreligious witness. The general boards and agencies all work ecumenically in several exciting ways. And, Annual Conferences, districts, and local congregations frequently are the vehicles through which disciples are made and practical theology is lived out.

Per the Discipline, ¶1642, Each annual conference shall create appropriate structures related to Christian unity and interreligious relationships to provide for these functions and maintain the connectional relationships with the Council of Bishops. The Discipline contains a recommended structure and the required duties of this annual conference group. The COB maintains contact with annual conferences through their corresponding structures, normally referred to as CUIR's. Districts have an important role to play as well. It is recommended that the group responsible for annual conference Christian unity and interreligious relationships be comprised, in part, of two representatives from each district. Districts can also be sources of encouragement and support for ecumenical and interreligious ministry and formation. The flow of information both ways is best when the annual conference CUIR and COB staff stay in touch with each other.

Most importantly, every local congregation should be encouraged to be in relationship with members and leaders of houses of worship in their areas. Rich ministry can be offered on a local level when those relationships are built. Local congregations should also be connected to their district representatives and annual conference representatives in order to keep in touch with the COB staff and for information about local ecumenical and interreligious events.

The work of the COB is enlivened by examples of local ecumenical and interreligious ministries. The following chapter gives suggestions on how involvement and witness may happen.

“People fail to get along because they fear each other; they fear each other because they don’t know each other; they don’t know each other because they have not communicated with each other.”

Leader of The Civil Rights Movement
(1929-1968)

Chapter 3: The Work of the Council of Bishops

Types of Local Ecumenical and Interreligious Involvement

There are many different ways for leaders in The United Methodist Church to encourage ecumenical and Interreligious engagement. Locally, there are often several options. If none of the following exists, however, United Methodist clergy and laity are encouraged to start unity movements. Some ideas to consider include the following:

Church to Church Connection: Both laity and clergy can be intentionally involved in Christian unity and interreligious relationships in their contexts and neighborhoods. United Methodists can be catalysts for community mercy and justice ministries; shared worship services; joint Bible studies; visits to each other’s houses of worship; and disaster response ministries. A local pastor or lay leader can get started by simply reaching out to someone in another faith community and asking if they might study together or be in ministry together in some way needed in the area.

Local Conciliar Bodies: The United Methodist Church participates fully in several councils and relationship-building organizations. Many of these groups find expression within the areas of our annual conferences and districts. Pastors and lay people can look in their area for ministerial associations, ecumenical or interfaith covenant groups, study groups, councils of churches, and interfaith communities.

Opportunities for Study: There are several regular events and gatherings in which United Methodists can be engaged. In the United States, for example, there is an annual UMEIT (United Methodist Ecumenical and Interreligious Training) event that is held parallel to the National Workshop on Christian Unity. UMEIT USA, led by a team working with the Council of Bishops ecumenical staff, is open to all who wish to register and is an excellent avenue for learning about what is happening in ecumenical in interreligious ministry currently. UMEIT can be held in any annual conference around the world, if there is leadership who would like the COB ecumenical staff to work with them. A bishop or district superintendent would simply need to work with the office to connect the local leadership with the COB staff.

In addition to UMEIT, in the USA for example, the North American Academy of Ecumenists meets annually. The National Council of Churches of Christ in the USA sponsors a Christianity Unity Gathering each year. And, Christian Churches Together sponsors an annual themed plenary, part of which is open to all interested.

Church Re-organizations: When small congregations shrink to the point of becoming ineffective in making disciples of Jesus Christ, congregations can suggest options to their district superintendents. Our Book of Discipline offers options for union and sharing with other local denominations. Paragraph 206 in the Book of Discipline explains the organization of “Cooperative Parishes.” Paragraph 207 outlines “Ecumenical Shared Ministries.” Paragraph 208 explains the concepts of “Federated churches”, “union churches”, “merged churches”, and “yoked parishes.”

Most importantly, Prayer and Worship are ways in which United Methodists are called to be involved ecumenically and interreligiously. Local congregations can pray for their neighbor churches and other houses of worship every Sunday during the time of pastoral prayer. Joint worship services can be held on special occasions, such as Thanksgiving in the US, or Epiphany, or Easter.

The United Methodist Participation in Councils and Other Networks

The United Methodist Church officially participates in several councils and relationship-building organizations. Every time a meeting is held those United Methodists in attendance are representative of all United Methodists across the connection. Among the organizations in which The United Methodist Church participates are the following:

Churches Uniting in Christ

Churches Uniting in Christ (CUIC) is a multi-lateral dialogue among several Protestant Churches in the USA, who covenant together to work toward racial justice and hope eventually to achieve full communion. There are three representatives from each faith communion who sit on the Coordinating Council: the Delegate (who is usually the ESO), the Advisor (who is usually the EO), and a Young Adult Representative. CUIC sponsors a bi-annual gathering of Christians who study together a topic. The Council of Bishops sends an official delegation to this event.

The Pan-Methodist Commission

The Pan-Methodist Commission is a multi-lateral full communion relationship among six Methodist denominations. It meets together to work on that relationship and its shared ministry once a year. It was designed to have nine representatives from each from each of its six member communions (The African Methodist Episcopal Church, The African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church, The African Union Methodist Protestant Church, The Christian Methodist Episcopal Church The Union American Episcopal Church and The United Methodist Church). That number is to be equally divided between Bishops, Clergy and Laity (3 each). Bishop Jonathan Holston currently Chairs the Commission.

Christian Churches Together in the USA

Christian Churches Together in the USA (CCT) is an ecumenical venture that focuses on relationship-building, faith sharing and understanding among its five family groups (Historically Black Churches, Evangelical and Pentecostal Churches, Historically Protestant Churches, Orthodox Churches and the Roman Catholic Church) in the USA. It has an Executive Committee made up of representatives from each of the family groups. Additionally, CCT currently holds an annual forum, which focuses on an issue common to the members and is selected by the Executive Committee. The Council of Bishops sends an official delegation to this forum.

The World Council of Churches

The World Council of Churches (WCC) is a global fellowship of approximately 345 member communions representing over 500 million Protestant and Orthodox Christians. The United Methodist Church is a founding member and continues actively participating today through its various educational, advocacy and theological ministry programs. The WCC holds a worldwide assembly approximately every seven years, and the Council of Bishops sends an official delegation to this forum. Bishop Mary Ann Swenson currently serves as Vice Moderator. Bishop Sally Dyck and other United Methodists participate in the work of the Central Committee.

The World Methodist Council and Conference

The World Methodist Council WMC is a fellowship of over 80 Methodist/Wesleyan/United Churches who share a connection to the theology and history of John Wesley. Governed by a diverse Steering Committee, the WMC engages in global dialogues, ecumenical formation, evangelism and networking. The Methodist Ecumenical Office in Rome, the Jerusalem Office, an office in Geneva, a museum and office in North Carolina and the Old Rectory in London are all connected with the WMC, as are World Evangelism, Wesley Men and the World Federation of Methodist and Uniting Church Women. Bishop Rosemarie Wenner currently serves as the Geneva Office Secretary and Rev. Matthew Laferty currently serves as the Methodist Ecumenical Office in Rome Executive Director.

The Global Christian Forum

The Global Christian Forum (GCF) is a global ecumenical venture that focuses on relationship-building, faith sharing and understanding among a diverse group of global Christians. Participation in GCF gatherings is limited in number and by invitation.

The Council of Bishops works with the General Board of Global Ministries to select an official delegation to participate, keeping in mind the topic to be discussed at the gathering.

The Oxford Institute

The Oxford Institute is a long-standing conference wherein formal, theological papers and ideas about the history and theology of John Wesley and global Methodism are presented and discussed. Participation in the Oxford Institute is by invitation, and the Council of Bishops generally selects one bishop from each college of bishops to participate.

Additional United Methodists, who would like to offer presentations, apply directly to the Oxford Institute acceptance committee.

The National Council of Churches in Christ in the USA

The National Council of Churches of Christ in the USA (NCCC in the USA) is a fellowship of member churches that strives to develop working relationships, provide opportunities for joint ministry, and offers a collective voice for social justice in the USA. It is an example of regional councils of churches in which United Methodists participate globally. The Council of Bishops selects participants for the NCCC in the USA's Convening Tables, through which ministry, formation and advocacy are organized.

National Workshop on Christian Unity Planning Committee

In 1963, a group of Roman Catholics, in context of the Second Vatican Council, met to equip local leadership for the task of ecumenical ministry. In 1969, they invited leaders of other Christian communions to join, and today the national ecumenical officers of the churches continue their oversight of the resulting workshop called The National Workshop on Christian Unity, which is planned jointly by national and local committees. There are both denominational and ecumenical sessions during the workshop, including the annual UMEIT: USA gathering. The National Workshop on Christian Unity (NWCU) organizes a major ecumenical and interreligious training every year at a different location in the USA. Because of the intensive work this requires, the NWCU has a continually operating Planning Committee. Each network represented in the NWCU (CADEO – the Roman Catholic network, EDEIO – the Episcopal network, LEIRN – the Lutheran network, UMEIT: USA – the Methodist network and EPEDA – the evangelical network) names two persons to serve on this committee. The Council of Bishops offers annual scholarships to attend this workshop.

National Ecumenical Officers Association (National Workshop on Christian Unity)

The National Ecumenical Officer's Association (NEOA) exists to provide oversight to the National Workshop on Christian Unity. The Council of Bishops usually sends an ESO to participate on their behalf.

Religions for Peace

Religions for Peace (RFP) exists to bring together leaders from religious communities to promote peace. They are comprised of international organizations and several country-based organizations. Central Conferences with RFP organizations can choose to financially support them, or the international organization, as well.

Religions for Peace is guided by the vision of a world in which religious communities cooperate effectively for peace, by taking concrete common action. The UMC is connected both through Religions for Peace International and Religions for Peace in regional locations. Bishop Mary Ann Swenson is a North American President of RFP International, and Rev. Youngsook Kang serves on the Executive Committee of RFP USA.

The Parliament of the World's Religions (PWR) was created to cultivate harmony among the world's religious and spiritual communities and foster their engagement with the world and its guiding institutions to achieve a just, peaceful and sustainable world. To accomplish this, they invite individuals and communities who are equally invested in attaining this goal. They now hold a global assembly every three years.

These organizations are committed to leading efforts to advance effective multireligious cooperation for peace on global, regional, national and local levels while ensuring that the religious communities organized on these same levels assume and exercise appropriate leadership and ownership of these efforts. There are other expressions of interreligious engagement through our United Methodist boards and agencies. One example is the connection between the General Board of Church and Society and "Shoulder to Shoulder," which actively works to build relationships between Muslims and Christians. Another example is Church World Service, who works with relief organizations, like UMCOR, to coordinate disaster relief and migrant ministries.

United Methodist Ecumenical and Interreligious Training

United Methodist Ecumenical and Interreligious Training (UMEIT) is the over-arching name for formation through the COB. Trainings are currently offered in six formats, including:

UMEIT Online: UMEIT: Online has been created as an online course entitled “One in Spirit.” The course is located on the bishops’ website and is available continually for participants to become trained as ecumenical and interreligious leaders in the UMC. Participants can take the six-session course at their own speed and in their own time. Upon completion a certificate from the Council of Bishops can be requested. Go to: www.unitedmethodistbishops.org and search under the “Resources” then “UMIET: Online” tabs.

UMEIT Plunge: Every annual conference is encouraged to select one young adult to participate in this formation ministry every quadrennium. The bishop of the annual conference is invited to sponsor him or her to take an intensive two-week pilgrimage to ecumenical sites in Europe, while learning about the global Ecumenical Movement. The following year the same young adult will raise his or her own funding to take a second pilgrimage to interreligious sites of his or her choosing in order to learn about the global Interfaith Movement.

UMEIT Global: The COB has a goal of helping to coordinate UMEIT events across the Connection. Already, UMEIT sessions have been successful in the Philippines, Norway, Russia, Angola and Germany. Central and Annual Conferences are encouraged to invite the COB OCUIR to help organize and teach at a UMEIT in their area. A bishop need only work with their COB ecumenical staff to create a UMEIT in her or his annual conference. The only requirement is local leadership to work with the COB staff.

UMEIT USA: This is an annual gathering which occurs in conjunction with the National Workshop on Christian Unity. US-based annual conference Christian Unity and Interreligious Relationships Representatives or Chairs are strongly encouraged to attend; however, all interested Methodists are welcomed. UMEIT USA takes place in a different city throughout the United States every year, and it is an excellent way to learn about unity ministry and network with other leaders. Scholarships for seminary students are available. Go to www.nwcu.org for initial information.

UMEIT Young Adult Network: This training is a two-year commitment for a group of young adults from across the Connection, who receive regular formation in ecumenical and interreligious ministry through the COB ecumenical staff. The young adults, in turn, commit to creating networks or other projects in their own contexts to further ecumenical and/or interreligious engagement in their areas. The group meets via video conference every six weeks as they learn, teach each other and develop their ministerial action plans (MAPs).

UMEIT Zoom: UMEIT: Zoom is a monthly online training especially designed for annual conference leaders of ecumenical and interreligious ministries. UMEIT: Zoom has been designed to help train the appointed Christian unity leaders in every annual conference, however anyone interested in learning more is welcome to participate in these English-language zoom gatherings. The training subject is different every month and is presented in approximately 30 minutes by a member of the bishops’ staff or invited leader. Common Prayer for global Christian unity is then offered. In order to register for UMEIT: Zoom you must request the link Ms. Summer Papajeski at spapajeski@umc-cob.org

THE COMMITTEE ON FAITH AND ORDER

The Committee on Faith and Order (CFO) exists to resource our bishops in their teaching role, and to lead and coordinate theological studies commissioned by the General Conference. According to the Book of Discipline, “The Committee shall be a visible expression of the commitment of The United Methodist Church to carry on informed theological reflection for the present time in dynamic continuity with the historic Christian faith, our common heritage as Christians grounded in the apostolic witness, and our distinctive Wesleyan heritage” (2016 BOD ¶1444). The CFO is made up of sixteen members which is to include four bishops. The process for nominations to the Committee on Faith and Order of The UMC is outlined by the 2016 BOD in ¶1447.

United Methodist Dialogues

Currently, The United Methodist Church has two active denominational-level Dialogues: 1) with the United States Conference of Catholic Bishops (begun in 1967) and, 2) with The Episcopal Church (USA) (begun in 2002). A Dialogue with the Moravian Church (Northern and Southern Provinces), conducted in 2013 and 2014, resulted in a full communion agreement that was ratified by the 2016 General Conference and by the two Moravian Provincial Synods in 2018. United Methodist-Lutheran dialogue began in 1977. The third round of dialogue started in 2001 and resulted in a full communion agreement that was ratified by the 2008 General Conference and the Churchwide Assembly of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America in 2009. In addition to our ongoing dialogues, we also have Full Communion Coordinating Committees with the Moravian Church and the ELCA that meet regularly.

The stated goal of both the Dialogue with the United States Conference of Catholic Bishops (USCCB) and the Episcopal Church USA is the establishment of a full communion relationship. Substantive differences over the Petrine Office and women’s ordination (with Roman Catholics) and the nature of the episcopacy (with Roman Catholics and Episcopalians) remain unresolved and dialogue continues with both ecumenical conversation partners.

Dialogues, through the auspices of the World Methodist Council, are also conducted at the world level with the Vatican, Baptists, and the Anglican Communion. These Dialogues are not authoritative in that the products of these conversations are not binding upon member churches in the World Methodist Council, but they offer useful insights and resources for dialogues at other levels of the Christian church.

Dialogues also take place at many different national, regional, and local levels of the church. Many ecumenical agreements have resulted from these conversations and ecumenical dialogue is an important part of ministry of congregations, communities, and larger groupings of Christians as they give witness to the transformation possible through common witness to the love of Christ Jesus.

Full Communion Partners

Official denomination-wide full communion partners are those who have completed dialogues approved by the Council of Bishops and ratified by the General Conference. The United Methodist Church has several full communion partners. We understand a formal full communion relationship as one that exists between two or more Christian churches that:

1. recognize each other as constituent members of the one, holy catholic and apostolic church, the Body of Christ, as described in the Holy Scriptures, and confessed in the church's historic creeds.
2. recognize the authenticity of each other's sacraments and welcome one another to partake in the Eucharist in each other's worship.
3. affirm the authenticity of each church's Christian ministry; and
4. recognize the validity each other's offices of ministry.

At the denominational level The United Methodist Church is in full communion relationship with several churches including:

- The African Methodist Episcopal Church
- The African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church
- The African Union Methodist Protestant Church
- The Christian Methodist Episcopal Church
- The Evangelical Lutheran Church in America
- The Moravian Church (Northern and Southern Provinces)
- The Union American Methodist Episcopal Churches
- The Uniting Church in Sweden

There are also full communion relationships on annual and central conference levels. The relationships among the Community of Protestant Churches in Europe is one example of these.

Other Partner Relationships

In the Book of Discipline special partnerships are described among The United Methodist Church and other Methodist, or Wesleyan, denominations around the world. These are churches outside the bounds of United Methodist jurisdictions but have relationship agreements with The United Methodist Church, as follows:

Concordat Covenantal Churches

The Methodist Church in Great Britain, The Methodist Church in Mexico, The Methodist Church in Puerto Rico and The Methodist Church in the Caribbean and the Americas are each in a concordat partnership with The United Methodist Church. This is an especially strong relationship that honors a long-standing connection between the two churches. The concordats allow for voting delegates at each other's denomination-wide conferences and encourage mutual, joint ministries. The Methodist Church in Great Britain sends four delegates to each UM General Conference. The other three concordat partners send two delegates. These delegates have both voice and vote. Concomitantly, The UMC sends two delegates to each of our four concordat partners' denomination-wide conferences when they occur. These delegates also have voice and vote. Traditionally, the two delegates from The UMC have been a bishop and an active lay person.

Autonomous Methodist Churches are the many self-governing churches in the Wesleyan tradition. They may have at one time been a part of The United Methodist Church, chose to create a separate denomination and then entered into an Act of Covenanting with The United Methodist Church. They do not send delegates to The United Methodist General Conference.

Affiliated Autonomous Methodist Churches are also self-governing churches. Their establishment was assisted by The United Methodist Church (or one of its predecessors). They have entered into a Covenant of Relationship or an Act of Covenanting with The United Methodist Church and are entitled to send two delegates (one clergy and one lay) to The United Methodist General Conference. These churches currently include: The Evangelical Churches of: Argentina, Bolivia, Costa Rica, Panama, and the Philippines; The Korean Methodist Church; and the Methodist Churches of: Brazil, Chile, Cuba, Hong Kong, India, Indonesia, Malaysia, Peru, the Republic of China, Singapore, the Union of Myanmar and Uruguay.

Affiliated United Churches are self-governing churches which were created when two or more denominations united, one of which was related to The United Methodist Church (or one of its predecessors). They are entitled to send two delegates (one clergy and one lay) to The United Methodist General Conference. These churches currently include: Church of Pakistan, Dominican Evangelical Church, Eglise Protestante Unie de Belgique, Evangelical United Church of Ecuador, United Church of Christ in the Philippines, The Hong Kong Council of the Church of Christ in China, The United Church of Canada and The United Church in Japan (Kyodan).

Covenanting Churches are self-governing churches (which may fall into one of the previously mentioned categories or are of another Christian denomination) that have entered into a covenanting relationship with The United Methodist Church through an Act of Covenanting.

The COB works to strengthen and explore these relationships. A Pre-General Conference Ministry Consultation among some of these partners was held just prior to the 2016 General Conference in Oregon and the bishops' staff is currently working to develop stronger connections.

Chapter 4: Practical Engagement Grants, Scholarships and Resources

The COB offers several opportunities throughout the year to receive ecumenical and/or interreligious grants and scholarships. Check the website and Facebook pages for the most up to-date information on the following opportunities (and other opportunities as they arise):

Local Initiative Grants: These grants provide at least three groups within annual conferences working on ecumenical and/or interreligious ministries financial assistance. Applications are due in the late summer; projects are selected in the fall, and funds are forwarded toward the end of the year for use the following year.

UMEIT Global: Every year the COB sends staff to do an ecumenical and/or interreligious training somewhere in the global UM connection. That training is supported by a grant from the COB. Interested bishops should contact the Ecumenical Officer for details

UMEIT Scholarships: Every year several scholarships are available for seminary students to attend UMEIT USA and the National Workshop on Christian Unity. Applications are available after the first of the year for these spring gatherings.

The World Council of Churches Ecumenical Institute (Bossey): Every year The Ecumenical Institute in Geneva, Switzerland hosts a five- month educational certificate program for theologians from around the world. The COB sponsors one young adult to attend as a representative of our denomination. Applications are available after the first of the year.

How Can You Help Churches Be Involved?

There are many ways to be active in ecumenical and interreligious ministry and witness. In addition to those already mentioned, the COB ecumenical staff recommends:

The Week of Prayer for Christian Unity: This effort began in the 19th century as a means to have Christians join in prayer together annually. In the 1930's these efforts were coordinated and expanded when Roman Catholic Priest, Paul Couturier, inaugurated a Universal Week of Prayer for Christian Unity. Still today, this week is celebrated in the northern hemisphere each January beginning the third Sunday and in the southern hemisphere near Pentecost. Millions of Christians around the world, including those in The United Methodist Church participate and pray for each other. Since the Second Vatican Council, the theme and materials for this prayer week have been prepared by a joint group from the World Council of Churches and the Roman Catholic Pontifical Council for Promoting Christian Unity. The suggested worship materials are available from the Graymoor Ecumenical Institute at www.geii.org.

The Ecumenical Prayer Cycle: This resource to help local congregations, districts or annual conferences engage in prayers of supplication and thanksgiving is available from the World Council of Churches. It can be added to local church, district or conference websites. With All God's People: The New Ecumenical Prayer Cycle is available at: <https://www.oikoumene.org/resources/prayer-cycle>

Annual Conference CUIRs: Possibly the most effective way to get districts and conferences involved is to encourage local congregations to connect with the Annual Conference CUIR Representative. Annual conferences are where local relationships among different Christian communions are developed, where full communion relationships are lived out, where concordat relationships are honored, and where ecumenical formation in local congregations happens. By Discipline each annual conference is required to have a committee, team or group which is responsible for assisting their resident bishop with the living out of ecumenical and interreligious ministries. The annual conferences who have responded to the COB request for those names are listed in the annual resource appendix provided by the COB. It is further recommended that each district also have a contact person, who works directly with the annual conference group. Each congregation can, in turn, be connected to that district leader. Each pastor can also seek out, or begin, an ecumenical or interreligious ministerial associate in his or her context.

Finally, all the UMEIT opportunities are available to all clergy and laity. The different forms of The United Methodist Ecumenical and Interreligious Training have been outlined previously in this manual. If you have further questions or would like to be more involved with your office, please feel free to contact the COB staff directly.

Chapter 5: Prayer and Worship

Ecumenical Prayer and Worship

When Christians of various traditions come together for worship there is often great confusion about how worship should be organized. Basically, there are two options. Each different tradition can take a turn in leading from their context and thus teaching the other Christians present about their style of worship. Alternatively, a combined service, or ecumenical service, can be created. When the latter option is chosen there are a few things to keep in mind:

1. Ecumenical worship is an opportunity to witness to the inclusive love and unity of God’s Spirit. Make sure everyone is invited.
2. There should be representation from all traditions who will be involved in the planning of the service of worship. It is better to have clear communication from the start than to make assumptions.
3. An honest conversation about Holy Communion needs to happen. The Eucharist means different things to different traditions. Often sharing in Communion is not a possibility. However, the brokenness that remains can be highlighted with a careful explanation of why we cannot yet all partake together. Additionally, all persons can receive blessings from officiants. It is helpful for those not familiar with this practice to make this invitation orally and written with brief instructions.
4. When United Methodists participate in ecumenical worship it is essential they are first well-versed in their own traditions. The order of worship of a United Methodist service can be found in the front of The United Methodist Hymnal. It should be studied and understood.
5. A single, scriptural theme is recommended in order to hold all the parts of the worship service together.

In Chapter 6 of this handbook you will find example liturgies from: Churches Uniting in Christ, The Week of Prayer for Christian Unity and The Eucharistic Liturgy of Lima from the World Council of Churches. These may serve as helpful templates in planning ecumenical worship services.

Christian Sacraments and Church Rituals

When Christians of various traditions worship together, special consideration should be given to the sacraments. Attention should be given, also, to the fact that different Christian groups have different sets of sacraments. What we talk about here are both sacraments and rituals important to the universal church of Jesus Christ.

Baptism: Most denominations now recognize baptism with water in the name of the Father, Son and Holy Spirit. Those affirming only believers' or adult baptism may question infant baptism and vice versa. United Methodists are strongly encouraged to learn about our traditional baptismal beliefs and practices by studying the book By Water and the Spirit (Gayle Carlton Felton, Nashville: Discipleship Resources, 1998). The Triune baptism by water of an individual from another Christian body is accepted and affirmed when that individual comes to join a United Methodist congregation, however, United Methodist polity does not support rebaptism. A renewal of baptismal vows can be offered instead. When a baptism is offered in a United Methodist church it is appropriate to have a clergy person from one of our full communion partners participate as a sign that baptism is into the universal church of Jesus Christ. Likewise, United Methodist clergy are encouraged to participate in baptisms in other Christian churches, when invited.

Communion: United Methodists are strongly encouraged to learn about our traditional Communion beliefs and practices by studying the book This Holy Mystery (Gayle Carlton Felton, Nashville: Discipleship Resources, 2005). The United Methodist Church practices an open Communion. This means all persons are invited and welcomed to participate, because we believe the sacrament is a means of grace available to all. When worshipping with another faith community it is important to learn what their practice is. For example, there is no formal provision for Communion with the Roman Catholic Church. United Methodist worshippers should respect their difference of belief and not assume it is acceptable to receive the elements. Instead they may choose to request a blessing from the officiant.

Marriage: In The United Methodist Church it is the responsibility of the pastor officiating to discern whether or not he or she will agree to perform the marriage ceremony. Pre-marital counseling is highly recommended. When the marriage is ecumenical, that is, when it is between two Christians of different traditions, then clergy from both traditions are welcome to participate and to continue in a relationship of support with the couple. When the marriage is interreligious, that is when it is between adherents of two different religions, then great care should be taken to learn what is required by both religions. Basic resources are available from the COB for weddings between Christians and Buddhists, Hindus, Jews or Muslims.

Funerals: Again, the preparation and leadership in a funeral is at the discernment of the pastor officiating. Interaction with the family is highly recommended, and joint leadership among ecumenical clergy is welcomed. For interreligious funerals, basic resources are available from the COB for services including Christians and Buddhists, Hindus, Jews or Muslims.

The Church: A new document is now available and serves as a companion document to By Water and the Spirit and This Holy Mystery. The document is designed to be a teaching document about the church itself. [\[Ask Kyle for how it should be cited here.\]](#)

Interreligious Prayer and Worship

When groups of people from multiple religious traditions gather for worship, hospitality and care need to be shown. At the same time the participants' particular faith expressions should be honored. This can be a delicate balance, but it is one into which we are called as both neighbors and witnesses. These thoughts may add some guidance:

1. All participants should know who they are and what their faith means to them. It may be helpful for United Methodists to study the order of worship found in the front of the UM Hymnal.
2. It would be wise to study the basics of the religions of the others involved in the worship service. This may keep participants from making some easily avoidable mistakes.
3. A representative of each participating religion and tradition should be on the planning committee.
4. It is recommended there be a pre-determined goal in mind. Why is this worship service being held and why are United Methodists participating?
5. Know ahead of time what each participant's limits are in terms of the names and characteristics of God. For example, is it important to end a prayer in the name Jesus Christ, or is it important to name God as receiver of all prayers?
6. Communication with other participants is essential. Each person needs to know and understand the other's limits, passions, and goals.

The COB staff has prepared brochures for Christian clergy who are invited to participate in weddings and funerals of joint services with Buddhists, Hindus, Jews and Muslims. They afford basic information on those world religions and advice on those world religions and advice on entering into worship officiation with their leaders.

Chapter 6: Ecumenical Worship Services

There are several ecumenical liturgies available for congregations or groups of congregations who come together to share in ecumenical services. What follows are three of those liturgies: The Churches Uniting in Christ Communion Liturgy, an example liturgy from the Week of Prayer for Christian Unity and the Lima Liturgy.

A. CUIC Communion Liturgy

(This has been revised for local and regional worship services but originated from the National Act of Worship Inaugurating Churches Uniting in Christ. This particular version can be found at www.episcopalchurch.org/library/document/cuicliturgy, however in response to the 2015 CUIC plenary a section under “Declaration of Purpose” referring to reconciliation of ministry has been removed.)

Sermon

Affirmation of Faith: The Nicene Creed

We believe in one God, the Father, the Almighty, maker of heaven and earth, of all that is, seen and unseen. We believe in one Lord, Jesus Christ the only Son of God, eternally begotten of the Father, God from God, Light from Light, true God from true God, begotten, not made, of one Being with the Father. Through him all things were made. For us and for our salvation he came down from heaven: by the power of the Holy Spirit he became incarnate from the Virgin Mary, and was made man. For our sake he was crucified under Pontius Pilate; he suffered death and was buried. On the third day he rose again in accordance with the Scriptures; he ascended into heaven and is seated at the right hand of the Father. He will come again in glory to judge the living and the dead, and his kingdom will have no end.

We believe in the Holy Spirit, the Lord, the giver of life, who proceeds from the Father. With the Father and the Son he is worshiped and glorified. He has spoken through the Prophets. We believe in one holy catholic and apostolic Church. We acknowledge one baptism for the forgiveness of sins. We look for the resurrection of the dead, and the life of the world to come. Amen.

Prayers of the People:

Prayer is offered with intercession for: the Universal Church, its members, and its mission; the Nation and all in authority; the welfare of the local community; those who suffer and those in any trouble; the departed (with commemoration of a saint when appropriate).

Leader: Holy God, the earth you created in beauty now languishes in pain, waiting for its redemption. The peoples of the earth whom you created, to live together in peace and joy, now experience violence and despair. Transform us and our Churches Uniting in Christ that we may become your ministers to this world and its people.

People: Make us bold in our struggle against cruelty. Give us courage and endurance to accept no peace where there is oppression, and to work for justice, God's Shalom, and the common good. Help us speak to the conscience of our country and its institutions. Use us to heal the brokenness in life. Renew our joy so that all creation can sing again the glad songs with which the world began.

Leader: All this we pray through Jesus Christ through whom you make all things new.

People: Amen.

Hymn

Peace: The people exchange signs of Christ's peace.

Liturgy of the Table

Offering and Preparation of the Table

Leader: My sisters and brothers, we have confessed the gospel of Christ and the new life that God has lavished upon us. Let us now glorify God with gifts that we share with one another and with the whole world.

Gifts are brought forward to the table to be prepared for the Eucharistic Meal.

Anthem (if appropriate)

Great Thanksgiving Prayer

Leader: God be with you,

People: And also with you.

Leader: Lift up your hearts.

People: We lift them to God,

Leader: Let us give thanks to God most high.

People: It is right to give God thanks and praise,

Leader: All praise to you, God our Creator, for by your Word and Spirit you made the heavens and the earth, filled them with life and declared everything good. All praise to you, God our Redeemer, for sending prophets, apostles, teachers, and martyrs, inspired by your Spirit to speak the word of life, and when the time was right, for becoming fully human in Jesus Christ. All praise to you, God our Helper; as wisdom, you inspire us to speak the truth; as power, you strengthen us to do justice. With your sons and daughters of faith, in all times and places, and with all the heavenly host, we praise you with joy.

All: Holy, holy, holy God of power and might, heaven and earth are full of your glory, Hosanna in the highest. Blessed is the one who comes in the name of our God. Hosanna in the highest!

Leader: Loving God, in gratitude we remember that on the night before the crucifixion, Jesus took bread and after giving thanks to you broke it and gave it to the disciples, saying: "This is my body which is given for you. Do this in remembrance of me." In the same way after supper Jesus took the cup and after giving thanks, gave it to them and said: "This cup is the new covenant in my blood. Do this, as often as you drink it, in remembrance of me." In gratitude for what Christ has done for us, we proclaim our hope.

All: Dying you destroyed our death, rising you restored our life, Jesus, come in glory.

Leader: Holy God, send your Holy Spirit upon us and these gifts, that all who eat and drink at this table may be one body and one people, a living sacrifice in Jesus Christ. Through this meal unite us with the risen Christ so that we may give ourselves for the life of the world. Through us bring good news to the poor, release to the captives, recovery of sight to the blind, and freedom to the oppressed. Give us the power to work for justice that all the world may be filled with peace and joy. This sacrifice of praise and thanksgiving we offer you, eternal God, through Jesus Christ, in unity of the Holy Spirit, one God for ever and ever.

All: Amen.

Leader: With the confidence of the children of God, let us pray:

All: Our Father in heaven, hallowed be your name. Your kingdom come, your will be done on earth as in heaven. Give us today our daily bread. Forgive us our sins as we forgive those who sin against us. Save us from the time of trial and deliver us from evil. For the kingdom, the power, and the glory are yours, now and forever. Amen.

Breaking the Bread

Leader: The bread we break is the communion of the body of Christ.

All: We who are many are one body for we all share in the one bread.

Leader: The cup of blessing for which we give thanks is a sharing in the blood of Christ.

C= Celebrant L= Lector A= All

I. Prelude/Preparation

The candles are to be lit as the service starts.

Welcome and Introduction to the Week of Prayer – Theme

A commentator welcomes people to the celebration introducing the theme of the prayer.

L: Please stand and join in singing the opening hymn as the celebrants enter in procession along the path. Passing near the “well”, each representative of a participating church will slowly pour the water from a jug into the bowl. This water, from different sources, is a symbol of our unity which is real, though still incomplete. When the celebrating group is small, if possible, invite people to say their names and to which church they belong.

II. Opening

Invitation to prayer (3)

C: Almighty God, breathe into us the wind of unity that recognizes our diversity,

A: Breathe into us tolerance that welcomes and makes us community,

C: Breathe into us fire that unites what is torn apart and heals what is ill,

A: Breathe into us grace that overcomes hatred and frees us from violence,

C: Breathe into us life that faces down and defeats death,

A: Blessed be the God of mercy, who is Father, Son and Holy Spirit, and makes all things new. Amen!

Confession of Sin and Kyrie

C: In humility, as children of God and sisters and brothers in Christ, we receive God’s mercy and respond to God’s call to make new all relationships.

L: Merciful Lord, your Spirit hovered over the waters where diversity sprouted and flourished. We confess our difficulty to live with legitimate differences. Forgive us those attitudes of mind, words and actions that do violence to unity in diversity.

A: O Lord, have mercy upon us...(sung)

L: Merciful Christ, grace and joy of the multitude, listener and teacher, you give birth to new visions of hope and heal the wounds of mind and body. We confess that we have failed to listen to voices different from our own, failed to say words that bring healing and hope, and we have perpetuated exclusive attitudes to those who cry out for solidarity and fellowship.

A: O Lord, have mercy upon us...(sung)

L: Merciful Lord, you are the source of all creation, the Eternal and life-giving Word. We confess that we do not listen to your creation that groans and cries out for liberation and renewal. Help us to walk together and to hear your voice in all living things that suffer and yearn for healing and care.

C: O God, fountain of mercy and grace, pour over us your pardon. May your love transform us into a source of living waters to restore the strength of your people. We make our prayer through Christ our Lord.

A: Amen.

III. Gospel Proclamation

Proclamation or dramatization of the Gospel of John 4:1-42

Meditation or Sermon

IV. We Respond in Faith and Unity Affirmation of Faith

(The Nicene-Constantinopolitan Creed, the Apostles' Creed or another affirmation of faith may be used for example the renewal of baptismal promises.)

Intercessory Prayer

The Congregation may sing the following Indigenous melody Guaicuru Kyrie or choose another.

L: God of eternal compassion, as individuals and as community, we ask for light, so we may become more welcoming and understanding towards others and reduce the suffering in our world.

A: Hear us, God of love! Hear this our cry!... (sung)

L: God of eternal compassion, teach your children that charity, hospitality and unity are expressions of your revelation and will for humanity.

A: Hear us, God of love! Hear this our cry!... (sung)

L: God of eternal compassion, we beseech you, grant us peace; teach us and guide us to be builders of a tolerant and non-violent world.

A: Hear us, God of love! Hear this our cry!... (sung)

L: God of eternal compassion, who spoke to us through creation, then through the prophets and then through your Son Jesus Christ, grant us wisdom to listen to your voice that calls us to unity in our diversity.

A: Hear us, God of love! Hear this our cry!... (sung)

L: God of eternal compassion, in the name of your Son Jesus Christ our Lord who as a stranger asked for a drink from a Samaritan woman, give us living water, springing up unto eternal life.

A: Hear us, God of love! Hear this our cry!... (sung)

The local community may add other prayers.

Offering

C: We learn from Jesus to offer our lives as a sign of love and compassion. God, may we become living offerings dedicated to the ministry of your Word and grace.

Offerings are presented to the community.

C: God, who are with us and walk in our midst, grant us this day the grace of your light and Spirit so that we may continue our mission and remain faithful to welcoming and listening to all, even those who are different from ourselves. Take away the violence that is in our hearts and the discriminating attitudes that exclude and devalue the human dignity of others. Enable our churches to be welcoming spaces where feast and forgiveness, joy and tenderness, strength and faith become our daily practice, our daily food, our daily movement forward in Jesus Christ.

A: Amen.

Note: Local communities are invited to organize the offerings according to local tradition. We suggest that offerings be brought and placed on top of the colorful cloth before the altar. While the offertory takes place, a song is sung, chosen by the local organizing team.

The Lord's Prayer (said or sung)

V. Benediction, Peace and Sending Forth Benediction

C: May the Lord God, bless you and protect you, fill your heart with tenderness and your soul with joy, your ears with music and your nostrils with perfume, your tongue with song giving face to hope. May Jesus Christ the living water be behind you to protect you, before you to guide you, by your side to accompany you, within you to console you, above you to bless you. May the life-giving Spirit breathe into you that your thoughts may be holy, act in you so that your work is holy, draw your heart so that you love what is holy, strengthen you that you will defend what is holy. May he make his home in your heart, water its dryness, and melt its coldness, kindle in your innermost soul the fire of his love and bestow upon you a true faith, and firm hope, and a sincere and perfect love.

A: Amen.

Sharing Peace

C: May God, who teaches us to welcome each other and calls us to practice hospitality, grant us peace and serenity as we move forward on the path of Christian Unity. As we go in the peace of Christ let us share with each other the sign of peace.

Postlude

C. The Lima Liturgy

This example comes from the Reformed Churches of America and can be found at: www.rca.org/resources/occasional-liturgies.

Preparation

Q: Blessed are you, Lord God of the universe, you are the giver of this bread, fruit of the earth and of human labor, let it become the bread of Life.

C: Blessed be God, now and for ever!

Q: Blessed are you, Lord God of the universe, you are the giver of this wine, fruit of the vine and of human labor, let it become the wine of the eternal Kingdom.

C: Blessed be God, now and for ever!

Q: As the grain once scattered in the fields and the grapes once dispersed on the hillside are now reunited on this table in bread and wine, so, Lord, may your whole Church soon be gathered together from the corners of the earth into your Kingdom.

C: Maranatha! Come Lord Jesus!

Dialogue

P: The Lord be with you.

C: And also with you.

P: Lift up your hearts.

C: We lift them to the Lord.

P: Let us give thanks to the Lord our God.

C: It is right to give him thanks and praise.

Preface

P: Truly it is right and good to glorify you, at all times and in all places, to offer you our thanksgiving O Lord, Holy Father, Almighty and Everlasting God. Through your living Word you created all things, and pronounced them good. You made human beings in your own image, to share your life and reflect your glory. When the time had fully come, you gave Christ to us as the Way, the Truth and the Life. He accepted baptism and consecration as your Servant to announce the good news to the poor. At the last supper Christ bequeathed to us the eucharist, that we should celebrate the memorial of the cross and resurrection, and receive his presence as food. To all the redeemed Christ gave the royal priesthood and, in loving his brothers and sisters, chooses those who share in the ministry, that they may feed the Church with your Word and enable it to live by your Sacraments. Wherefore, Lord, with the angels and all the saints, we proclaim and sing your glory:

Sanctus

C: Holy, Holy, Holy...

Epiclesis I

P: O God, Lord of the universe, you are holy and your glory is beyond measure. Upon your eucharist send the life-giving Spirit, who spoke by Moses and the prophets, who overshadowed the Virgin Mary with grace, who descended upon Jesus in the river Jordan and upon the Apostles on the day of Pentecost. May the outpouring of this Spirit of Fire transfigure this thanksgiving meal that this bread and wine may become for us the body and blood of Christ.

C: Veni Creator Spiritus!

Institution

P: May this Creator Spirit accomplish the words of your beloved Son, who, in the night in which he was betrayed, took bread, and when he had given thanks to you, broke it and gave it to his disciples, saying: Take, eat: this is my body, which is given for you. Do this for the remembrance of me. After supper he took the cup and when he had given thanks, he gave it to them and said: Drink this, all of you: this is my blood of the new covenant, which is shed for you and for many for the forgiveness of sins. Do this for the remembrance of me. Great is the mystery of faith.

C: Your death, Lord Jesus, we proclaim!

Your resurrection we celebrate!

Your coming in glory we await!

Anamnesis

P: Wherefore, Lord, we celebrate today the memorial of our redemption: we recall the birth and life of your Son among us, his baptism by John, his last meal with the apostles, his death and descent to the abode of the dead; we proclaim Christ's resurrection and ascension in glory, whereas our Great High Priest he ever intercedes for all people; and we look for his coming at the last. United in Christ's priesthood, we present to you this memorial: Remember the sacrifice of your Son and grant to people everywhere the benefits of Christ's redemptive work.

C: Maranatha, the Lord comes!

Epiclesis II

P: Behold, Lord, this eucharist which you yourself gave to the Church and graciously receive it, as you accept the offering of your Son whereby we are reinstated in your Covenant. As we partake of Christ's body and blood, fill us with the Holy Spirit that we may be one single body and one single spirit in Christ, a living sacrifice to the praise of your glory.

C: Veni Creator Spiritus

Commemorations

O: Remember, Lord, your one, holy, catholic and apostolic Church, redeemed by the blood of Christ. Reveal its unity, guard its faith, and preserve it in peace. Remember, Lord, all the servants of your Church: bishops, presbyters, deacons, and all to whom you have given special gifts of ministry.

(Remember especially...)

Remember also all our sisters and brothers who have died in the peace of Christ, and those whose faith is known to you alone: guide them to the joyful feast prepared for all peoples in your presence, with the blessed Virgin Mary, with the patriarchs and prophets, the apostles and martyrs... and all the saints for whom your friendship was life. With all these we sing your praise and await the happiness of your Kingdom where with the whole creation, finally delivered from sin and death, we shall be enabled to glorify you through Christ our Lord;

C: Maranatha, the Lord comes!

Conclusion

P: Through Christ, with Christ, in Christ, all honor and glory is yours, Almighty God and Father, in the unity of the Holy Spirit, now and for ever.

C: Amen

The Lord's Prayer

Q: United by one baptism in the same Holy Spirit and the same Body of Christ, we pray as God's sons and daughters:

C: Our Father...

The Peace

Q: Lord Jesus Christ, you told your apostles: Peace I leave with you, my peace I give to you. Look not on our sins but on the faith of your Church; in order that your will be done, grant us always this peace and guide us toward the perfect unity of your Kingdom for ever.

C: Amen.

P: The peace of the Lord be with you always.

C: And also with you.

Q: Let us give one another a sign of reconciliation and peace.

Q: Lord Jesus Christ, you told your apostles: Peace I leave with you, my peace I give to you. Look not on our sins but on the faith of your Church; in order that your will be done, grant us always this peace and guide us toward the perfect unity of your Kingdom for ever.

C: Amen.

P: The peace of the Lord be with you always.

C: And also with you.

Q: Let us give one another a sign of reconciliation and peace.

The Breaking of The Bread

P: The bread which we break is the communion of the Body of Christ, the cup of blessing for which we give thanks is the communion in the Blood of Christ.

Lamb of God

C: Lamb of God, you take away the sins of the world, have mercy on us.

Lamb of God, you take away the sins of the world, have mercy on us. Lamb of God, you take away the sins of the world, grant us peace.

Communion

Thanksgiving Prayer

P: In peace let us pray to the Lord: O Lord our God, we give you thanks for uniting us by baptism in the Body of Christ and for filling us with joy in the eucharist. Lead us towards the full visible unity of your Church and help us to treasure all the signs of reconciliation you have granted us. Now that we have tasted of the banquet you have prepared for us in the world to come, may we all one day share together the inheritance of the saints in the life of your heavenly city, through Jesus Christ, your Son, our Lord, who lives and reigns with you in the unity of the Holy Spirit, ever one God, world without end.

C: Amen.

Final Hymn

Word of Mission

Blessing

P: The Lord bless you and keep you. The Lord make his face to shine on you and be gracious to you. The Lord look upon you with favor and give you peace. Almighty God, Father, Son and Holy Spirit, bless you now and forever.

C: Amen.

Appendix

A. Glossary

I. Ecumenism - The word “ecumenism” is a noun derived from two Greek words, oikoumene (“the inhabited earth”) and oikos (“house”). Put together they could be understood as: “The people of the whole world who live within a common home.” When traced to the teachings and prayers of Christ, ecumenism can be used to describe the worldwide household of those who hold to one Christian faith. It has become a key word for the movement toward greater Christian understanding, appreciation, and visible unity. In its modern usage, ecumenism has come to be associated with Christian Unity in general. The word “ecumenical” is an adjective used to describe this 20th century movement and its leadership.

II. Interreligious -There are several ways this word and the following word are currently used. For the WCC “interreligious” refers to actions between different Christian denominations, much like the word “ecumenical”. It has also been used to refer to holding formal dialogues. The COB ecumenical staff usually uses “interreligious” to describe interactions among religious institutions or religious organizations, the emphasis being on the institutional relationships among religions, such as Buddhist, Christian, and Hindu.

III. Multi-Religious – This term is used by some Christians to refer to religions working together. The COB tends to use “Interreligious” instead of “multi-religious.”

IV. Interfaith - For the WCC “interfaith” refers to interaction between different faith groups such as Muslim, Christian and Jew. It has also been used to refer to the working together of people of faith to combat social justice issues. The COB ecumenical staff usually uses to “interfaith” to describe interactions among people of different religions, the emphasis being on the personal, spiritual relationships among human beings.

V. Intrafaith – Pay attention to the prefix. Intra means within, inside or on the inside. So, Intrafaith refers to members of one religion examining just itself in light of their own experiences.

VI. Dialogue and Conversation - Dialogue literally means a word between two parties but is more broadly understood as a term for conversation or listening. Within the Ecumenical Movement it has come to be understood as a formal, official and ongoing conversation on particular issues of unity between or among denominations or groups of faith. A dialogue between two faith groups is called a bi-lateral dialogue. A dialogue among three or more faith groups is called a multi-lateral dialogue.
